INDIA
Baking

Dear Friends and Supporters!

Here they are seen baking away at the School for the Blind in Cooch Behar, India. It is Svetlana (married to Raj and herself a Board Member at the School), who has taken the initiative to teach the blind and visually impaired to bake. In every way possible the School wants to help the students so they can manage as many tasks as possible when they leave school. It is important to be able to bake, cook, use a gas stove, and handle various kitchen equipment. They started with a small group. The students are interested and joyful. Some of them are already showing great diligence and competence.

Greetings from SB Foundation
